HOW TO USE THIS RESOURCE

Using public domain (PD) is a great way to produce new content fast. You can use PD content to produce books, audio books, ebooks and video courses as well as blog posts, email series, podcast content and so much more.

But in order to use it you must first find it. In this book, I lay out some of the best places on the web to find PD content. I've divided the book up into five categories: PD Images, PD Text, PD Video-Audio-Music, PD Comics and PD Search Engines.

A word of caution:

Most of these resources in this book provide pure PD content while others offer it under a Creative Commons (CC) license with free commercial use and the need for attribution. It is up to you to use the content under the terms that it is made available. This is to say, you need to check it. Don't automatically assume that resources here are PD (though the majority are) just make sure that you are using the content accordance to it status either PD or CC . Ultimately, you are responsible for the content that you use so if in doubt ask the webmaster at the site where you downloaded the material.

How This Book Is Organized

Pretty simple really... like this:

One last thing, I want you to actually get useful content from this resource which will require you to stay on task and focused. I know all too well that "research" can turn into hours surfing the Internet with nothing being accomplished. So set a timer as you look through these resources and don't succumb to "click bait" that you might find that, before you know it, will have you reading a blog post like....

Stay the course... actually research what you're looking for and don't allow yourself to become distracted.

You're welcome!

Now let's dive in.... May the "Force of PD Content Be With You"

Daniel

“The site was something I would never have thought to look for but as I’ve seen it now it has been a wee surprise. I work offshore on a pipe-laying vessel and spend six weeks at a time at sea, now I have a little library of works to read that I print off and use in my off shift. The other guys on-board are using it too and it’s thanks to yourself we’ve got some interesting reading.”

Welcome to Great Books and Classics

The student is half afraid to meet one of the great philosophers face to face. He feels himself inadequate and thinks he will not understand him, tho if he only knew, the great man, just because of his greatness, is much more intelligible than his modern commentator. The simplest student will be able to understand, if not all, yet a very great deal of what Plato said; but hardly anyone can understand some modern books on Platonism." - C. S. Lewis, On the Reading of Old Books

Project Wittenberg

Welcome to Project Wittenberg's Web Site!

Project Wittenberg is home to works by and about Martin Luther and other Lutherans. Here you will find all manner of texts from short quotations to commentaries, hymns to statements of faith, theological treatises to biographies, and links to other places where words and images from the history of Lutheranism live.

Project Wittenberg is the first step towards an international electronic library of Lutheranism. As such, we are always adding and changing our sites. This site contains Project Wittenberg texts in final form. For the latest versions of our texts, many of which are still being assembled and refined, drop in at Project Wittenberg's Electronic Lutheran Web.

Welcome

Timeless Truths is a free online library with resources including the Bible, magazines and books, sheet music, midi, and recorded audio. It is dedicated to the edification of those who love God, and to seriously address the questions and concerns of those who wish to inquire about the Bible and how we should live. "Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness: for they shall be filled."*

Welcome to the Content Directories

The following is a list of organizations and projects powered with Creative Commons licenses. Since Creative Commons does not maintain a database of content and does not store content, we would like CC-community members to help build a directory of projects to help spread the word about CC — hence the CC Content Directories wiki! Please help us fill it out!

What is an appropriate entry for Content Directories?

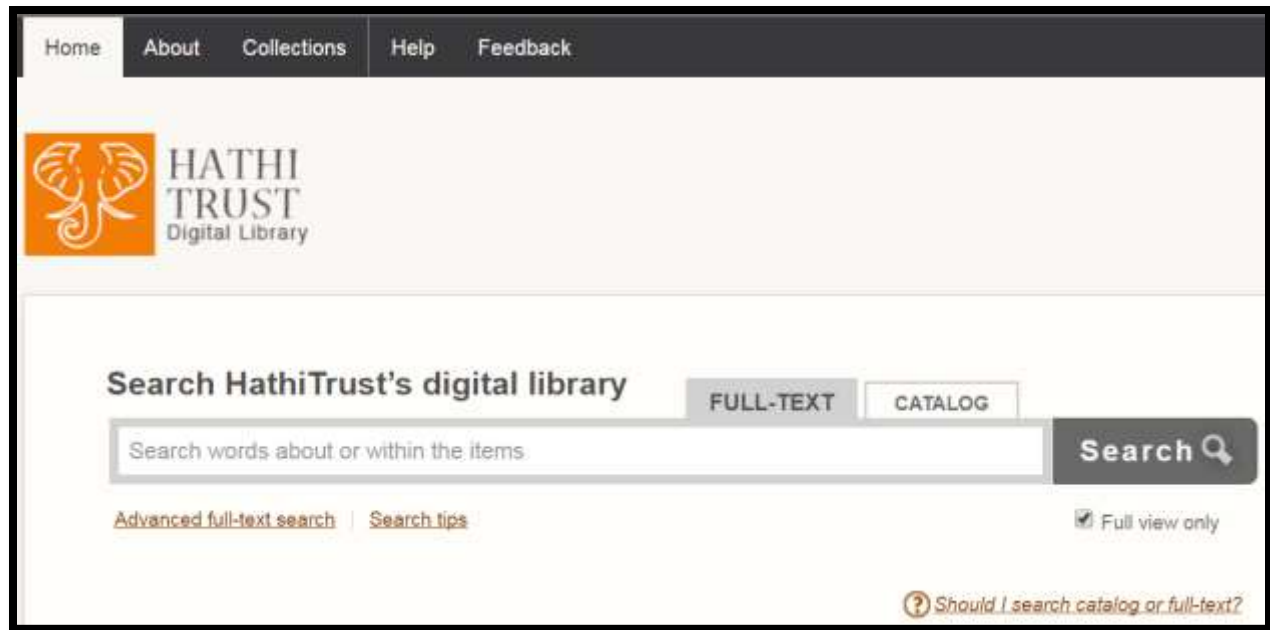

Many of the listings in the Content Directories are organizations that provide services using Creative Commons licenses. For example, Flickr.com is a photo-sharing website that allows users to license their photos under Creative Commons licenses. Flickr hosts millions of CC-licensed photos on its site.

Not certain that something should be added to this list? Add it to Talk:Content Directories For short lists of notable works, see books and films. For other notable uses, see the case studies project.

How to add an entry to Content Directories

To get started, see here. If you haven't done so already, you'll need to sign up for an account on this wiki. Users must be logged-in to post to the wiki.
